Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

A few weeks ago a monument was unveiled in Wyalusing State Park, Wisconsin, to the memory of the passenger pigeon, a bird which formerly thrived in this community by the millions, but which is now extinct.

The species became extinct with the death of the last bird of its kind in the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens, September 1, 1914.

That reminds me that in the early days of Fayette County, great clouds of the carrier pigeons roosted along Paint Creek at Upper and Lower Cedar Holes, below Rock Bridge, and their numbers were so great that many trees were stripped of limbs as the weight of the birds caused limbs to break beneath them.

That was just one roosting place in the county, but was regarded as the main one, and each night hundreds of thousands of the birds roosted there.

The birds were in such great numbers and so destructive to crops, that relentless war was declared upon them, and they were slaughtered with guns and trapped in great numbers.

Finally the birds showed a sharp decrease in numbers, and as the warfare continued and more pioneers joined in the crusade against them, they finally vanished in this area, and later completely disappeared as above stated.

Fuss Over Child Is Fatal to Two

STEBENVILLE, July 5—(AP)—A quarrel over the custody of a three year old daughter, ended in the death of two persons yesterday, Coroner W. H. Rogers reported.

The coroner said Lester Johnson 35, shot his 26-year-old ex-wife Gertrude, as she walked along Route 43 yesterday and then killed himself.

Children Out Late To Be Picked Up

As result of much vandalism in the city recently, apparently the work of irresponsible children on the streets after 10 P. M., Chief of Police Vaiden Long has announced that all children on the street after 10 P. M., without an escort, will be picked up and their parents notified.

Recently a half score of autos were stripped of gasoline caps, windshield wipers, and other equipment, and part of the stolen accessories were found where they had been thrown aside by those committing the crime.

Several Arrested Over The Holiday

A number of arrests were made by police over July 4, most of them being for intoxication.

Harold Western, city, was cited for reckless operation, and posted $20 bond.

James McDonald, Lancaster, was picked up at the bus station on a drunk and disorderly charge. While in the city prison he is alleged to have broken a window out.

All were to face Judge R. H. Sides Saturday.

Town Is Isolated By Worst Flood

Food Supplied by Boat and Plane As Mississippi at Record Stage

GRAND TOWER, Ill., July 5—(AP)—This southern Illinois river town was completely isolated today by the worst flood in its flood-studded history.

It could be reached from the outside only by amphibian plane or boat. Food, milk and other necessities were being supplied by boat under the supervision of the coast guard. The flood waters reached almost to second story windows in some places.

The Mississippi River gauge last night showed a reading of 40.6 feet, which was .7 of a foot above the previous high mark recorded in 1943. The gauge keeper expected the water to rise "a little higher" before receding.

The townspeople totaling about 1,000, who had battled valiantly against invasion by the Turgid River, had to give up the fight Thursday night when their hastily erected barrage of sandbags was breached by the muddy waters. The business district and most of the residential area was quickly flooded as water poured through the 30-foot break, but all residents reached high ground safely. The only casualty was 12-year-old Billy Clutts, who suffered a broken ankle when his home was inundated.

The homeless, numbering about 600, were being sheltered in tents and two schoolhouses located on high ground. Something in the nature of a fourth of July rally was held last night under the direction of Mrs. L. K. Jackson, Red Cross canteen chairman. Plans were discussed for building a permanent levee along the waterfront as well as for beautifying the town. Tribute was paid Mayor Jesse Grammer for his strenuous efforts during the fight against the flood.

Previously the town has turned down proposals for a levee, because the residents felt it would obstruct the view of the river and spoil the town's river front park. was conducting an anti-typhoid and smallpox immunization program.

Upstream from Grand Tower, the river was reported falling after having reached the highest level in more than 100 years in some places. Levees in the 75-mile stretch between Grand Tower and St. Louis were reported holding, including the one protecting Duplo, Ill., whose citizens rallied to save it after it appeared doomed.

Soldiers and civilian volunteers continued sandbagging and strengthening the more important barriers across the river in Perry County, Mo., and south of here on the Illinois side.

Call City Building For Street Oiling

City Manager W. W. Hill said Saturday that the work of applying oil to streets to lay dust, is now under way, and those wishing their streets oil should contact the city building at once so that no one will be missed.

"We have plenty of oil for laying dust on every street in the city, and this will be done as soon as the various streets can be reached," Hill said.

Fourth of July Brings Joy and Sadness to U.S.

Accident Death Toll Mounts to Temper Holiday Spirit

(By The Associated Press)
Americans the world over celebrated the 171st anniversary of the nation's birth yesterday, joined by wellwishers of Uncle Sam at 5th of July observances in a number of nations.

The United States death toll mounted steadily today, with two days still remaining before the millions of holiday makers return home from trips on the long 4th of July weekend.

The accident deaths already were above 200. Fair weather prevailed through most of the nation.

OHIO HOLIDAY TOLL

Traffic accidents caused the deaths of at least five Ohioans yesterday as motorists crowded highways for the first day of the long holiday weekend.

Three persons lost their lives by drowning and one man died following a picnic scuffle.

Traffic accidents and drownings accounted for most of the deaths, but fireworks, airplane crashes, fires and other mishaps accompanying a national celebration and mass movement of millions raised the list.

Patriotic gatherings and special holiday sports events drew crowds of millions yesterday and last night.

Warnings to Americans not to take their liberties too much for granted, and to be ever on guard against their loss in a world of unrest were the keynote of many Independence day addresses.

President Speaks
President Truman, speaking at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson who led in drafting the Declaration of Independence, said Russia's stand against the proposal for a joint European recovery plan was "folly." The president denounced the Russian argument that the plan of Secretary of State Marshall would mean the surrender of self-determination for European nations.

Army Chief of Staff General Dwight D. Eisenhower told a crowd at Vicksburg, Miss., that "humanity may suffer the Gethsemane of a third world war" unless the United States helps plan a structure of world peace." The city celebrated its third Independence Day—which also is the anniversary of the city's surrender to General Grant in 1863 in the war between the states. Previously, the city had been in mourning on the date.

Observance in Europe
In Europe, there were scattered observances of Independence Day by Americans—much different from the mass demonstrations of recent years when millions of American fighting men on foreign shores joined in.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, other British cabinet officers and members of the American colony were among 2,000 guests at a garden party given by U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Lewis W. Douglas.

The French and the American colony in Paris, headed by U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, joined in celebrating the day. Lafayette's contribution to the Colonies cause was observed at a number of ceremonies in France.

Other foreign cities where 4th of July observances were held included Bucharest (within the Soviet sphere), Manila, Nice, Warsaw, Rome, Jerusalem, Prague, Aalborg, Denmark; Lisbon, Tokyo, Havana, Mexico City and Moscow.

In the Soviet capital, U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith held a diplomatic reception at his residence. Deputy Foreign Minister Y. A. Molik was the ranking guest from the Soviet foreign office.

At U. S. army headquarters at Frankfurt, Germany, a small ceremony was held.

In Tokyo, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reviewed 15,000 American troops.

Boy Afraid To Go Home

CLEVELAND, July 5—(AP)—Police told today of a nine-year-old boy here who slept in fields for three days because he was "afraid to go home." His reason: He lost $5 on the way to the store for his mother. He finally showed up at his uncle's house.

Britain and France Open Door

LONDON, July 5—(AP)—Britain and France have sent new notes to Russia expressing the hope that the Soviet decision to boycott the Marshall plan is "not final," a foreign office spokesman said today.

The disclosure of the new attempt to include Russia in the program for rebuilding Europe came less than 24 hours after British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin warned Russia not to "provoke" the western world.

The spokesman said Britain had handed her note yesterday opening in Paris July 14, to plan to Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador in London, for transmission to his government, and that France had given a similar communication to Alexandre Bogomolov, Russian ambassador in Paris.

The new notes were dispatched while European nations studied British-French invitations to a 24-nation conference, for an integrated European economy with American financial assistance.

Bevin's warning to Russia was contained in a speech last night at an Independence Day dinner of the American Society in London, at which he asserted that regardless of Britain's desire for peace, others "can carry provocation too far."

Famed Aviatix Killed in Crash

Stunt Flying Fatal To Ex-Ohio Teacher

DECORAN, Ia., July 5—(AP)—In her first appearance with a troupe of stunt fliers, Miss Marge Hurlburt, holder of the women's international air speed record, was killed yesterday while performing in a fourth of July air show here.

An estimated 2,500 spectators witnessed the crash in a corn field at the east corner of the airport.

The 32-year-old Painesville O., woman who had joined the aerial circus troupe known as the "Flying Tigers" three days ago, was flying a borrowed A-T-6. She had circled the airport, buzzed the field and completed a loop.

She was executing what appeared to be a slow roll when her plane dove into the field. Her body was found in the smashed ship, which did not burn.

The former WASP set a new international speed record for women at 337.635 miles an hour last March 16 at Tampa, Fla., while flying a Navy Corsair over a three-kilometer course.

Miss Hurlburt, who taught school in Ohio for several years, was entered in the $5,000 Halle trophy race to be held at the National Air Races in Cleveland Aug. 30. She won that event last year at a speed of 200.5 miles an hour.

Ohioan Is Held In Brother's Death

DELAWARE, July 5—(AP)—County Prosecutor Clyde Lewis said last night that Frank Guyer, 31, of Columbus was held without charge at the Delaware County jail in connection with the death of his 36-year-old brother, Joseph Guyer.

Joseph died en route to a Columbus hospital yesterday.

The prosecutor said Frank told him he had struck Joseph during a family reunion on the Kiss ranch, north of the Columbus zoo and just inside of the Delaware County line.

Sheriff Earl Fraver said he was investigating the death but did not indicate what action he would take.

Fall from Ladder Fatal

CLEVELAND, July 5—(AP)—William G. Harding was injured fatally yesterday when he fell from a ladder while painting around the windows of his home.

Mystery of 'Flying Saucers' Deepens As Veteran Flier Reports Odd Sight

Portland, Ore., July 5—(AP)—

The "flying saucer" mystery reached fever pitch today, after "I saw them myself" statements from a veteran United Air Lines crew, scores of Portland residents and 60 picnickers at Twin Falls Park in Idaho.

The UAL pilot, co-pilot and stewardess, who had scoffed consistently at "flying saucer" tales, said they saw such objects last night while flying a passenger plane from Boise, Idaho, to Portland.

Their statements followed a day during which the "saucers" were reported seen in many parts of the nation.

Many Portlanders—including police, experienced fliers and three newspapermen—declared they saw silvery discs undulating over Portland.

In New Orleans, Miss Lillian Lawless said she saw an object, shining like silver or chromium, flying at a great height and at a terrific speed in a northeasterly direction over Lake Pontchartrain.

Describing what they saw as flat, translucent plates 12 to 15 inches in diameter, several Port Huron, Mich., residents reported seeing the "saucers."

Capt. E. J. Smith, Seattle, a veteran of 14 years with United Air Lines, said he observed the round flat objects—"like a pancake standing on end"—for about 12 minutes while flying from Emmett, Idaho, to a point south-east of Ontario, Ore.

He radioed the Ontario airport but airport officials saw nothing.

Sixty persons picnicking at Twin Falls Park, near Twin Falls, Idaho, said they saw the discs yesterday afternoon. A party of seven first saw some and ten minutes later, a crowd of 20 or 30 people saw another batch of nine or ten. Word passed around, and soon the waiting crowd saw another batch circling and climbing.

At Seattle, Frank Ryman, Coast Guard yeoman, said he took a picture of what some residents north of Seattle thought was a flying disc. The photograph showed a pin-head-size light spot against the dark evening sky.

The Oregonian dispatched a plane to hunt Portland's saucers. It found nothing but empty sky.

Russia Scored For Obstructing Recovery Plans

Reaction Awaited To Holiday Speech Made at Monticello

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 5—(AP)—President Truman today awaited world reaction to his Independence Day address denouncing as "folly" Russia's stand against a proposal for a joint European recovery plan.

Close associates said they believe Mr. Truman clings to the hope that the Soviet Union may yet decide to go along with the suggestion by Secretary of State Marshall despite the breakup of a preliminary conference in Paris.

Speaking to a holiday crowd at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Truman yesterday sharply denounced Russia's argument that the Marshall plan would mean surrender of self-determination for nationals of Europe.

He said there should be no more "propaganda attacks upon other nations" and suggested that after two world wars all countries should appreciate "the folly of a nationalism so extreme as to block economic planning among nations for peaceful reconstruction."

A few hours after Mr. Truman spoke, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared in London that Russia may find "that you can carry provocation too far."

"America and Britain," Bevin said in an address before the American Society, "will continue to think alike."

The British and French have invited 22 smaller European nations to a meeting to discuss co-operative plans for economic recovery despite Russia's decision to hold aloof.

Mr. Truman said one requisite for peace is for "all nations and all peoples" to "break down the artificial barriers that separate them."

He appealed for a "free flow of knowledge and ideas that alone can lead to a harmonious world" and added: "Unfortunately a number of countries maintain barriers against the flow of information and ideas into, or out of, their territories."

He said some of them, behind barriers of their own creation, "give their citizens 'carefully selected or distorted versions of the facts about other countries.'"

Today Mr. Truman enjoyed the luxury of "loafing" in this historic Virginia countryside.

Word came from the 210-acre estate of his weekend host, Stanley Woodward, state department protocol officer, that the chief executive intends to "take it easy" until he returns to Washington by automobile tomorrow.

Eleven Killed By Tornado

GRAND FORKS, N. D., July 5—(AP)—Eleven persons were dead today and about 30 other injured after a tornado struck in Windy Gates, Manitoba, and cut an 80 mile path into North Dakota and Minnesota.

Seven of the casualties, Mexican transient sugar beet workers from San Antonio, Tex., were killed when the Thursday night storm swept away a house near Auburn, N. D.

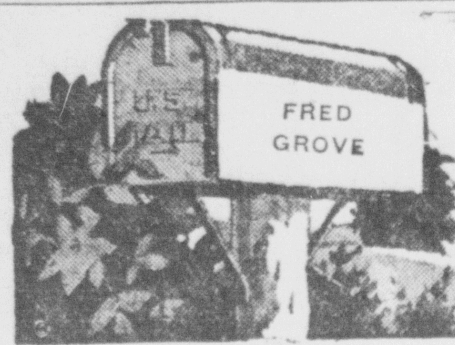

Another was killed in Windy Gates, two more near Oslo, Minn. and one near Warsaw, N. D.

Thirteen-year-old Marie Isabel Gutierrez, one of those to survive wrecking the house in which seven were killed, said from her hospital bed "it was just a big noise, and then you forget everything."

Small Taxpayers Are Key to Cuts

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) said today enactment of a tax reduction bill at this session of Congress could be "insured" by providing greater relief for small taxpayers as well as a Jan. 1, 1948, effective date.

The House Ways and Means committee has approved a second edition of the $4,000,000,000 tax cut measure vetoed by President Truman. The only change is to make the effective date next Jan. 1, instead of July 1 this year. A house vote is expected about Tuesday, with the Senate acting later next week.

For The Farmers Of Fayette County

Features and Objectives of AAA Are Outlined

Chairman Gives Many Facts On Farm Program

Federal Aid Really Economic Step Is Claim Made

A comprehensive resume of the fundamental features and objectives of the much discussed AAA farm program has been set forth in an letter just made public by Harry Silcott, Fayette County AAA chairman, whose work in that field has attracted more than state wide attention, and whose ideas concerning the program have been widely quoted.

In his letter, Silcott points out why he thinks it is economical to the country generally to have the AAA program.

The letter follows: "The purpose of this letter is an attempt to convey factual information to a few farmers and most urban dwellers about the fundamental features and objectives of the AAA Farm Program, and why.

"I know it must appear strange, or perhaps absurd in the thinking, especially of city people, for the farmers to feel justified in requesting even a small appropriation from the federal treasury in these times of too high prices for most agricultural products.

"If the $50 to $60 average payment per farm was all that the AAA meant to the people of the country I would certainly agree 100 percent. But I want to point out that the Agriculture Adjustment Act (AAA) has three main objectives, namely:

"To adjust the production of all agricultural products to meet the demand, keeping always in mind ample carry-over, to take care of any emergency or 'off' seasons, thus always guaranteeing plenty of food and feed for every need, and at the same time by the same method avoiding ruinous surpluses which have always resulted in disaster not only for the farmer, but for industry and labor as well.

"We have proven the flexibility of the program very definitely in the 12 years of its existence, first in the early thirties when farm prices were way below cost of production, by adjusting national farm production downward to meet the lowered demand, when again on entering the war, to stipulate and stimulate the production upward, which in spite of war handicaps reached last year to one-third larger than any previous crop production record.

"If business and industry continues to operate on a supply and demand basis, then agriculture must accept that kind of basis, if any fair, balanced or parity economy can be expected.

"The second objective of the AAA is conservation of our National Soil and Water Resources. It would be hard to find any American who would not agree that this is of first importance, not only to farmers, but to every man woman and child who is alive today.

"If the crop land now available for crops in the United States was divided equally to each individual, we would have only 2½ acres from which to obtain sustenance. Wouldn't you think that the business, industrialist, or laborer would be concerned as to the method his 2½ acres was being handled?

"Farmers are being told and are fast coming to believe, and rightly so, I think, that it may not be his full responsibility to provide all labor and expense necessary to prevent deterioration of the soil resources of all these 2½ acres, the production of which is needed and used by persons who are not farmers. Why then is it not the responsibility of all the people?

"Understand, this $50 to $60 payment is not a gift to the farmers, it only represents a part of the cost of soil building practices (mostly from 30 to 50 percent), the other and greater part must be contributed by the farmer himself. In other words the $98,000 which represents Fayette County's share of government authorized contribution this year, means, if earned by the farmer, from $200 to $250,000 worth of conservation practices will have been completed and applied in the county.

"Is there any other method of appropriations that all the people of the United States, through the federal government can make, that will yield as high a return in national economy, security and power?

"The third objective is crop insurance. It is a fairly new project, and not very well understood, but the fundamental principles are sound, and if continued, will be accepted as sound and necessary as any other insurance.

"Therefore, what does the AAA mean to the commercial businessman and the wage earners?

"By the first mentioned objective 'adjusting production' the farm production will be adjusted to the annual demand, plus ample carry-over of grain stored in 'ever normal granaries' in bountiful seasons, to be fed back in the market in 'off' seasons thus guaranteeing to the consumer a uniform plentiful supply of reserve food and feed for any emergency. Also if surpluses are avoided a price fairly near on a par with commercial prices can be realized that will give the farmer more buying power, resulting in more and safer sales for the merchant,

Here and There On the Farm

By THOMAS E. BERRY
LEARNING TO FARM

I've been learning to farm this morning, and I am learning the practical way, from observing good farmers, actively engaged in farming. (You can underscore actively too; for farmers are busy—very busy—and they are going to be busy until after harvest, for the long period of rainy weather has put many farm jobs close together, that are usually at least a few days apart.)

CULTIVATING CORN That was done very quickly and very efficiently on one farm, by a rotary hoe pulled by a tractor, that went over the field rapidly. A good seed bed had been prepared before the corn was planted, so the field was level and firm, and the rotary hoe killed almost all of the small weeds. "I'd suggest a light weeder behind your rotary hoe," I thought, "and then you wouldn't be missing any weeds." (I didn't say this for, I didn't know the farmer very well, and I didn't want him to get the idea that I know all about corn cultivation, for I don't. The facts are, (Please Turn to Page Three) more and better employment for the wage earner, who in return will buy more of the farmer's production. Like a rolling snowball, the farther it goes the bigger it gets.

"The second objective 'soil and water conservation' certainly needs no further comment, meaning security and food for the nation for all time to come. It also means that 2½ acres per head will not be wasted to 1½ acres in 20 years from now.

"The third objective 'crop insurance' means to the businessman, increased and safer business activity, because if the farmer must depend on the year's crop production to pay his bills, he does not have to guess about the seasons or the weather, he and the merchant he is dealing with, will know what his guaranteed production will be.

"The applicable combined result of these three AAA objectives, will be a higher quality of plentiful food, a higher standard of living for everyone, an all out balanced economy, and greater national strength and security."

Kansas Wheat Is Threatened By Lack of Combines, Is Claim

GREAT BEND, Kas., July 3—(AP)—Lack of combines posed a threat to the huge Kansas wheat crop today, but efforts were being made to rush harvesting equipment into the state to lessen any possible losses.

The estimated crop of 278,000,000 bushels is the largest in Kansas history.

The situation is especially critical cal this year because most of the wheat throughout the state has ripened at the same time, and also the harvest in Texas and Oklahoma is still underway.

Normally many combining outfits start out in Texas, traverse through Oklahoma and take up in Kansas as the wheat ripens progressively from south to north.

In Texas the harvest is well under way in the top of the panhandle where the acreage is great and the yield heavy. Most grain in the southern edge of the Texas wheat belt has already been harvested, however.

In Oklahoma the harvest is complete in a large portion of the state but urgent calls for combines are being made by the state agriculture extension service for three Oklahoma Panhandle counties where rains delayed the cutting.

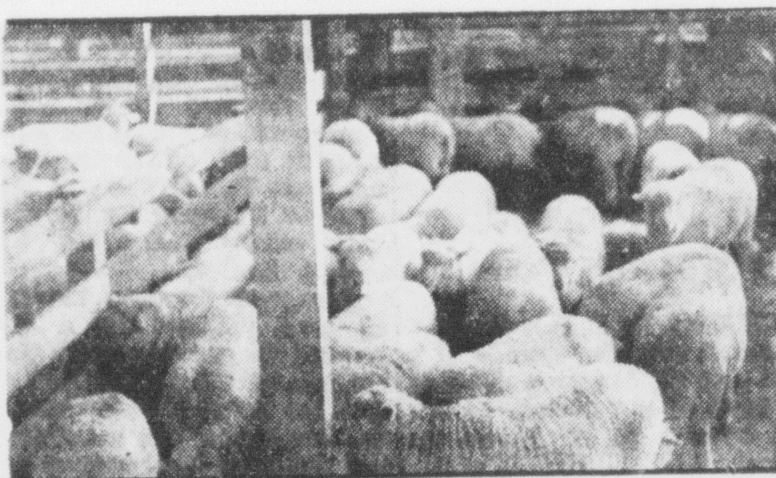

Rep. Hope (R-Kas) said in Washington that agriculture department is making efforts to start a number of combines south of Colorado, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana and northward from Texas.

Eshelman Introduces A NEW FEED RED ROSE 36% STEER SUPPLEMENT

Analysis: Protein 36% Fat 4%
Fiber 7%

CONTENTS: Meat Scraps, Soybean Oil Meal, Linseed Oil Meal, Cottonseed Oil Meal, Molasses, Bone Meal, Calcium Carbonate, and Salt. A rich palatable feed.

The feeding program is a simple one. Feed one and one-half pounds of Eshelman Red Rose Steer Supplement per day, per steer, together with all the grain the animal will consume. Follow this same feeding program from the time the animal is placed on grain feed until it is finished. The amount of grain the animal eats will balance its protein consumption, for as the animal grows it will eat more grain and thereby will be consuming a lower protein ration.

One of many good reports already turned in to us is this. One particular steer weighing 700 lbs. was put on the above steer feeding program, and at the end of sixty days the same steer weighed over 930 lbs.—a gain of almost 4 lbs. per day. This is an unusually good record but it did happen.

Good Losers

He crowned his life work by aiding a successful revolution, and is now honored by the country he defeated. This is the story of Benjamin Franklin, who secured French help in the Revolution and thereby gained our independence. Now a London house in which he lived off and on from 1757 to 1775 has been opened as a memorial. It is maintained by the British Society of International Understanding.

This is a new proof of one quality possessed by the British: they are not embittered by defeat. For years London has had a statue of George Washington in front of the National Gallery, and a bust of him in St. Paul's Cathedral. Sulgrave Manor in Northamptonshire, the ancestral home of the Washington family, was bought in 1914 by the British Peace Centenary Commission, and ever since has been maintained as a historic shrine. And the Duke of Wellington hung Stuart's portrait of Washington over his fireplace, and repeatedly expressed his admiration for him as perhaps the greatest and purest character of all time.

Billions Of Words

Far be it from newspaper men to do or say anything appearing to underestimate the value of reading and writing in any of their forms; but it seems lately as if this noble art is being deluged with limitless expansion, until it reaches a rate making the inventors themselves dizzy.

Thus the new Ultrafax system is credited with transmitting a million words a minute by "microwave," and at the same time carrying ordinary telephone and telegraph messages and television. Here are wonders which even the most romantic of scientific explorers could not have dared to prophesy only a few years ago. And obviously the end is not yet, by any means. But let us not be too proud. As the poet Tennyson, himself a scientific enthusiast, wrote nearly a century ago:

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before,
But vaster. We are fools, and slight;
We mock Thee when we do not fear;
But help thy foolish ones to bear;
Help thy vain worlds to bear Thy light."

Divided We Fall

Hindus and Moslems in divided Bengal will have other worries besides those pertaining to religion and politics, says Phillips Talbot, writing from Calcutta.

In Pakistan, the Moslem state, the jute fiber is grown, which after processing and weaving, is made into burlap bags. Raising the jute fiber is the main resource of this part of India, which lacks the power, coal and labor necessary for carrying on the processing. Jute mill owners in the Hindu state are unwilling to move to Pakistan, and this deadlock is a source of anxiety

Words of Wisdom

The purpose of an injury is to vex and trouble me. Now, nothing can do that to him that is truly valiant.—Johnson.

Today's Horoscope

You are the type of person who profits more by experience than by foresight. You are persistent and faithful and adversity does not deter your ambition or change your plan of work. You are friendly, and like attention; in love you are steadfast and devoted. The day's indications are not good in connection with personal affairs, public contracts, buying and where associates are concerned. Opposition is indicated. This is an auspicious anniversary for you, however. It promises exceptional financial gain and great activity, although some sadness or disappointment is possible later. Military, legal insurance and property activities are well indicated. The child who is born on this date will be very fortunate, happy and popular. The character and accomplishments will be outstanding. If born late in the afternoon or evening the prognostications are not quite so promising.

Hints on Etiquette

The latest word on etiquette for the bride is that if she receives a large number of gifts and does not find time to send personal notes for all, she may send engraved cards which state that a personal note of thanks will follow.

Horoscope for Sunday

If today is the anniversary of your birth, you are serious in everything you do, love, work or recreation. You are a great reader, a profound thinker, an ardent student, and you make the most of your abilities. You enjoy culture and refinement, and whatever you undertake is done to the best of your ability. This is a good day in that you are quite likely to have your own way. In your next year your affairs will prosper exceedingly, but conserve some of your gains. Property, land, insurance, legal and military matters, also ultra-modern concerns may confidently be dealt with. Born on this date a child will be remarkable in many ways. He or she will have a fine disposition, great talent, much success, and a long, healthy life. It is prognosticated.

to those in charge of forming the new set-up.

Now that the Moslems have attained their objective of a separate state, they find, ironically, that in order to exist they must cooperate with the rest of India, if any degree of economic security is to be maintained. They cannot live alone. What India and the rest of the world need is not more separation, but more getting together.

Reward For Marriage

Argentines are engaging in a good deal of impassioned argument wherever they gather, these days. It seems that a bill has just been introduced in their Congress which would provide a bonus of $375 for each government employee who marries. There is one strict stipulation, however. If no children have arrived after two years of marriage, half of the bonus must be returned to the government.

The Congressman who is sponsoring the bill believes that it would provide an incentive toward improvement of government service, which he thinks needs improving. He thinks people would be more interested in taking such employment if marriage were encouraged, financially speaking. As may be imagined, the proposal has caused a loud outcry from other citizens, who consider themselves every bit as valuable to the country.

It would be hard to find a subject which would arouse more controversy. The explosion which would result if such a bomb-shell were thrown into our own legislative halls can be imagined. And just when the ranks of government employees are beginning to thin out, too!

Guided missiles are being studied by the army, with progress reported. They might turn their attention to a self-threading needle, jet propulsion or some similar force guiding the thread through the needle.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — The American Home Economics Association warns that removal of rent controls might have even more serious results than the record high food prices and other steep price rises resulting from removal of government controls.

The association points out that shelter is "an immediate need, the shortage of which is not so readily overcome."

Dr. Dorothy Dickens, chairman of the Family Economics and Home Management Division of the Association says:

"A 15 percent rise in rents could, in a year, eat up a month's food bill of a low income family. The wholesale commodity average has gone up 33 percent over a year ago. The drain of this price rise on a limited income threatens the whole economy of the home."

The moderate income customer, she says, has kept his footing up to now, but if further rises in prices are permitted, he may start to slip.

"If this happens, he may soon be the invisible man," she says.

Dr. Martha M. Elliot, associate chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, back from a six weeks' survey of European countries, believes that Poland's war-afflicted children have the greatest need for aid.

Nevertheless, with all the impossible conditions existing in that country, Dr. Elliot reports great effort is being put forward in the interests of its some 1,500,000 orphans.

Homes are being found for thousands, and school teachers are caring for many.

Poison mothers whose husbands were war casualties and who themselves had been slave laborers are being cared for by the state in institutions along with their children.

In the institutions they are taught various trades—dressmaking, shoe repairing, toy making. Dr. Elliot says the children have no playthings at all, because of the prolonged shortage of supplies.

Dr. Elliot, who visited seven countries at the request of the International Children's Emergency Fund, says that milk is the greatest need for all European children today.

At the Yugoslavian orphanage she says the last supply of milk

Winning the Fight on Cancer

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THOUGH the battle against cancer is not yet won, scarcely any medical scientist doubts that a cure for this dread disease will be found, quite possibly in the near future. Reason for this optimism lies in the fact that the thousands of men at work on the problem have recently turned up many promising clues to the true nature of cancer. Once that is understood, a cure should not be long in coming.

Meanwhile, early diagnosis and prompt treatment with surgery, X-ray and radium are saving lives of cancer victims every day. As for instance, 30 out of every 100 patients with cancer of the stomach can be cured by operation if they get to the doctor early enough.

New Discoveries

Among the newer discoveries is one which points to a relationship between certain types of cancer and the body's own glandular secretions. As a result, cancer of the prostate gland—a particularly fatal form—is being successfully treated with female sex hormone and one out of five men so afflicted is being saved. More recently it has been found that injection treatment with male sex hormone sometimes relieves pain and prolongs life of elderly women who have cancer of the breast.

Then, too, during the war it was found that nitrogen mustard gas can be used with good results in only sure methods available.

COMPILED BY W. J. HILTY

THIS LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT

Let's oftener talk of noble deeds,
And rarer of the bad ones,
And sing about our happy days,
And not about the bad ones,
We were not made to fret and sigh,
And when grief sleeps to wake it,
Bright happiness is standing by—
This life is what we make it.

Let's find the sunny side of men,
Or be believers in it:
A light there is in every soul
That takes the pains to win it.

O! there's a slumbering good in all,
And we perchance may wake it;
Our hands contain the magic wand:
This life is what we make it.

Then here's to those whose loving hearts
Shed light and joy about them!
Thanks be to them for countless gems
We never had known without them.

O! this should be a happy world
To all who may partake it;
The fault's our own if it is not—
This life is what we make it.

The HOLLOW

by Agatha Christie

Copyright, 1936, by Agatha Christie Mallowan. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

SYNOPSIS

Among the week-end guests Lady Lucy Angkatell had invited to the Hollow were attractive Dr. John Christie and his dull, plain-looking wife, Gerda. The others, all members of the Angkatell clan, were: kindly Henrietta Angkatell, successful sculptress; young Midge Hardcastle, who supported herself by working in one of London's swank dress shops; David Angkatell, university student, and quiet Edward Angkatell, whose unrequited love of Henrietta made him an avenger of that Midge had long adored him. Unknown to anyone, Henrietta and John Christie had fallen deeply in love. Prior to leaving for Lucy's, John sat in his Harley Street office trying to fathom the mood of discontent which engulfed him, while upstairs, Gerda and the children patiently awaited his appearance for lunch. His thoughts went back to an earlier chapter in his life, when he had been madly in love with glamorous Veronica Gray, motion picture actress. He had broken their engagement when she refused to give up her career, and later had married Gerda, whose slavish devotion had left him free to pursue his beloved profession. In Henrietta he had found the intelligent understanding which Gerda lacked. Recently, when exhausted after a difficult session with old Mrs. Cranberry, his favorite clinic patient, he had stopped off at her studio.

CHAPTER SEVEN

JOHN HAD wakened to find Henrietta smiling at him and making tea and he had smiled back at her.

"Not at all according to plan," he said.

"Does it matter?"

"No. No. You are rather a nice person, Henrietta." His eyes went to the bookcase. "If you're interested in this sort of thing, I'll get you the proper stuff to read."

"I'm not interested in this sort of thing. I'm interested in you, John."

"You can't read Scobell." He took up the offending volume. "The man's a charlatan."

And she had laughed. He could not understand why his strictures on Scobell amused her so.

But that was what, every now and then, started him about Henrietta. The sudden revelation, disconcerting to him, that she was able to laugh at him.

He wasn't used to it. Gerda took him in deadly earnest. And Veronica had never thought about anything but herself. But Henrietta had a trick of throwing her head back, and looking at him through half-closed eyes, with a sudden, tender, half-mocking little smile, as though she were saying, "Let me have a good look at this funny person called John." Let me get a long way away and look at him."

It was, he thought, very much the same as the way she screwed up her eyes to look at her work—or a picture. It was—darn it all—it was detached. He didn't want Henrietta to be detached. He wanted Henrietta to think only of him, never to let her mind stray away from him.

"Just what you object to in Gerda, in fact," said his private imp, bobbing up again.

The truth of it was he was completely illogical. He didn't know what he wanted.

(I want to go home. . . . What an absurd, what a ridiculous phrase. It didn't mean anything.)

In an hour or so at any rate he'd be driving out of London—forgetting about sick people with their faint, sour, "wrong" smell . . . sniffing wood smoke and pines and soft autumn leaves. . . . The very motion of the car would be soothing—that smooth, effortless increase of speed.

But it wouldn't be reflected suddenly, be at all like that because Gerda would have to drive, and Gerda, heaven help her, had never been able to begin to drive a car! Every time she changed gear, he would sit silent, grinding his teeth together, managing not to say anything because he knew, by bitter experience, that when he did say anything Gerda became immediately worse. Curious that no one had ever been able to teach Gerda to change gear—not even Henrietta. He'd turned her over to Henrietta, thinking that Henrietta's enthusiasm might do better than his own irritability.

For Henrietta loved cars. She spoke of cars with the lyrical intensity that other people gave to spring, or the first snowdrop.

"Isn't he a beauty, John? Doesn't he just purr along? (For Henrietta's cars were always masculine.) He'll do Bale Hill a third—not straining at all—quite effortless. Listen to the even way he ticks over."

Until he had burst out suddenly and furiously:

"Don't you think, Henrietta, you could pay some attention to me and forget the darned car for a minute or two?"

He was always ashamed of these outbursts.

He never knew when they would come upon him out of a blue sky. It was the same thing over her work. He realized that her work was good. He admired it—and hated it—at the same time.

The most furious quarrel he had had with her had arisen over that. Gerda had said to him one day: "Henrietta has asked me to sit for her."

"What?" His astonishment had not, if he came to think of it, been flattering. "YOU?"

"Yes, I'm going over to the studio tomorrow."

"What on earth does she want you for?"

No, he hadn't been very polite about it. But luckily Gerda hadn't realized that fact. She had looked pleased about it. He suspected Henrietta of one of those insincere kindnesses of hers—Gerda, perhaps, had hinted that she would like to be modeled. Something of that kind.

Then, about ten days later, Gerda had shown him triumphantly a small plaster statuette.

It was a pretty thing—technically skillful like all of Henrietta's work. It idealized Gerda—and Gerda herself was clearly pleased about it.

"I really think it's rather charming, John."

"Is that Henrietta's work? It means nothing—nothing at all! I don't see how she came to do a thing like that."

"It's different, of course, from her abstract work—but I think it's good, John. I really do."

He had said no more—after all, he didn't want to spoil Gerda's pleasure. But he tackled Henrietta about it at the first opportunity.

"What did you want to make that silly thing of Gerda for? It's unworthy of you. After all, you usually turn out decent stuff."

Henrietta said slowly: "I didn't think it had. Gerda seemed quite pleased."

"Gerda was delighted. She would be. Gerda doesn't know art from colored photograph."

"It wasn't art, John. It was just a portrait statuette—quite harmless and not at all pretentious."

"You don't usually waste your time doing that kind of stuff—"

He broke off, staring at a wooden figure about five feet high.

"Hullo, what's this?"

"It's for the International Group. Pearwood. The Worshiper."

She watched him. He stared and then—suddenly, his neck swelled and he turned on her furiously.

"So that's what you wanted Gerda for? How dare you?"

"I wondered if you'd see. . . ."

"See it? Of course I see it. It's here." He placed a finger on the broad, heavy neck muscles.

Henrietta nodded.

"Yes, it's the neck and shoulders I wanted—and that heavy forward slant—the submission—that bowed look. It's wonderful!"

"Wonderful? Look here, Henrietta, I won't have it. You're to leave Gerda alone."

"Gerda won't know. Nobody will know. You know Gerda would never recognize herself here—nobody else would either. And it isn't Gerda. It isn't anybody."

"I recognized it?"

"You're different, John. You—see things."

"It's the darned check of it! I won't have it, Henrietta! I won't have it. Can't you see that it was an indefensible thing to do?"

"Was it?"

"Don't you know it was? Can't you feel it was? Where's your usual sensitiveness?"

Henrietta said slowly: "I don't think I could ever make you understand. . . . You don't know what it is to want something—to look at it day after day—that line of the neck—those muscles—the angle where the head goes forward—that heaviness around the jaw. I've been looking at them, wanting them—every time I saw Gerda. . . . In the end I just had to have them!"

"Unscrupulous!"

"Yes, I suppose just that. But when you want things in that way you just have to take them."

"You mean you don't care a darn about anybody else. You don't care about Gerda?"

"Don't be stupid, John. That's why I made the statuette thing. To please Gerda and make her happy. I'm not inhuman!"

"Inhuman is exactly what you are."

"Do you think—honestly—that Gerda would ever recognize herself in this?"

John looked at it unwillingly. For the first time his anger and resentment became subordinated to his interest. A strange submissive figure, a figure offering up worship to an unseen deity—the face raised—blind, dumb, devoted—terribly strong, terrible fanatical. . . . He said:

"That's rather a terrifying thing that you have made, Henrietta. Henrietta shivered slightly.

She said: "Yes—I thought that."

John said sharply: "What's she looking at—what is it—there in front of her?"

Henrietta hesitated. She said, and her voice had a queer note in it—

"I don't know. But I think—she might be looking at you, John."

Large Group of Ladies Enjoy Luncheon Bridge At Country Club

The Washington Country Club took on a patriotic air on Thursday, when a group of gracious hostesses composed of Mrs. Frank Mayo, Mrs. G. B. Vance, Misses Helen Hutson, Kathleen Davis and Marian Moore extended charming hospitalities to almost fifty members and guests for the regular fortnightly luncheon-bridge.

Huge bouquets of white hydrangeas, red poppies and blue larkspur, decorated the spacious lounge throughout, with small flags in evidence at points of vantage.

Tables seating the group for the tempting luncheon were adorned with milk white vases of flowers in the predominating colors, each cover marked with placard tallies featuring miniature flags dotted with red and blue stars.

The beautiful afternoon was spent in the progressive game and concluded with the presentation of attractively wrapped trophies to Mrs. Roush Burton, who was the winner of high score and Mrs. Robert P. Wilson, second.

Out of town members attending were Mrs. Pau, Cameron, Mrs. Dean Waddell and Mrs. J. W.

Byers of Greenfield, Mrs. Ralph Whaley and Mrs. W. W. Trovillo, of Frangfort.

Out of town guests were Mrs. E. D. Porter of Indianapolis, Ind., Mrs. Ralph Kah of Sidney, Mrs. C. E. Tefft of Columbus, Mrs. D. L. Myers of Detroit, Michigan, and Mrs. Barton Brooke of Youngstown.

Rotary Assembly Entertained By Pres. W. C. French

With Webster C. French as host at his home on East Market Street, the annual meeting of the Washington Rotary Club Assembly on Thursday evening was one of the most enjoyable and profitable in the organization's history.

The guests, each of whom either was a chairman of one of the Rotary Club committees, or an officer or director, gathered at the spacious French home for a most appetizing seven a'clock dinner after which the regular assembly session was held.

With R. French, the Rotary president for the new club year beginning July 1, presiding at this session, plans for the coming year were discussed at length and various changes in committees were approved, including one or two new committees to be announced later.

Several new ideas were introduced for programs for the coming year and some slight alterations in various policies were planned. It was agreed that the new year should be among the most successful in the local club's long and excellent record.

Those present for the meeting in addition to the host were Leonard R. Korn, L. M. Hayes, W. F. Himmelsbach, Paul Pennington, E. F. Moser, Fred Root, Forest Tipton, Colin Campbell, Earl Gidding, Hoy Simmons, Ralph Penn, John A. Leland, Dr. S. B. Smith, Eli Craig, Stephen C. Brown, William Clift and Billie Wilson.

Others invited who were unavoidably unable to be present were Rev. John K. Abernethy, Glenn Woodmansee, Carroll Haliday, Dr. J. H. Persinger and Stanley Chitty.

Dinner Bridge Thursday Is Last In a Series At Lovely Persinger Home

The last of a series of three delightful parties was given Thursday at the beautiful home of Mrs. J. H. Persinger, when she again combined hospitalities with Mrs. J. Paul Streyer, Mrs. W. Earl Parker and Mrs. M. Grove Davis, to entertain with a tempting four course dinner, perfect in its appointments, and an exact duplication of the previous evenings.

The rooms were again festive with patriotic suggestions carried out in every detail and also in the small tables seating the group.

Following the congenial dinner hour, nine tables of guests found the evening most enjoyable in the popular spirited game and the pleasant atmosphere, made possible by the charming hostesses, who at the conclusion of several progressions awarded beautifully tied trophies to Mrs. Louis Baer, holder of high score.

Mrs. Robert Duntun, second, and Mrs. Doris Willis Dick, third.

Mrs. Erceel Cline Pfersick assisted in the hospitalities throughout the evening.

The song, Mrs. Patton then read several verses from the second chapter of Philippians. She also said in part—We must learn to imitate Christ in all ways of life. She emphasized, "The world's need of Christ" and that a man may be a Christian at home but a pagan in business."

Mrs. Patton then read the names of missionaries given in the "Year Book of Prayer" that are to be remembered with prayer and asked all to join in prayer for them.

Mrs. Patton introduced Mrs. E. F. Hodson, national and foreign missions secretary, who gave for national missions study a book review of "Committed Unto Us" by Willis Lamott, who was born in Ohio in 1893 and who has written many historic books.

Mrs. Hodson first gave a review of Mr. Lamott, of his life and writings and then called upon Mrs. C. S. Kelley to give a review of the first two chapters—"Why Do They Do It?" and "The Field Abroad." The next two chapters were to be given by Mrs. C. R. VanZant, but due to illness she was not present.

Her review was given by Mrs. Hodson. They were "The Revival of Europe" and "North American Frontier." The review was very interesting and the remaining chapters of the book will be given in October.

Mrs. Whitfield closed the meeting with having all present give the Mispah benediction.

The meeting was then taken in charge by Mrs. Walter Patton, devotional and program leader. She announced the first number, a solo by Miss Marion Osborn, "The 1st Psalm" with Mrs. Marian Galt at the piano. Mrs. Patton offered prayer at the close of evening and will occupy the home of Dr. Marvin Roszmann and family, during their absence of three weeks on a vacation in North Carolina. Dr. Schilling will assume the practice of Dr. Roszmann and Mrs. Schilling will be his office assistant for the coming three weeks.

Guilds Combine For Picnic On Wednesday

The afternoon and evening groups of the Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church combined for a picnic at the Country Club picnic grounds.

The delightful weather, the beautiful surroundings and the setting sun were an ideal setting for the bountiful picnic supper that was served under the direction of Group Four. A pleasant hour was spent at the tables after which a combined meeting was held.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. M. J. Whitfield, with a word of welcome to all present and especially to the Night Group. She gave the quotation "The Lord is the strength of my life," Psalm 27-1.

Mrs. Whitfield then called upon Mrs. C. H. Thoroman, secretary of stewardship. She said in part—Now is the time for stewardship for our Lord. Start to do something today.

The secretary, Miss Mae Duffee, read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. M. L. Hayes gave her report and group chairmen also gave their reports.

A report was also given by Mrs. P. C. Harlow, chairman of a committee appointed to look after shrubbery for the church yard. A discussion followed and it was moved by Mrs. C. D. Young and seconded by Mrs. Grace Goodwin, that the dead shrubbery be removed and no planting done at the present time.

There was also some discussion about the redecorating of the church and about a bazaar to be held late in the fall. It was moved by Mrs. W. B. Hershey and seconded by Mrs. Ormond Dewey that a bazaar be held. The motion carried and Mrs. C. S. Kelley was appointed as chairman to look after the project.

Mrs. Whitfield reported that she and Mrs. Herbert Clickner attended a meeting of the Presbyterian officers in Columbus on June 11th. No detailed report was given.

The Theatres Coming Features at

More and more Hollywood is discovering an excellent medium for its art in the short story.

Critics have maintained often that the scope of the stories chosen for the sound stages was too great for an 80 or 90 minute picture. Having done very well with two Hemingway short stories, "The Killers" and "The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber," the cinema city is out now with "My Brother Talks to Horses" and "The Beast with Five Fingers."

The concentration of plot in a short story is often more adaptable to the screen than the involved plots and sub-plots of longer fiction.

STATE THEATER
The dirty tricks a beautiful woman can pull are the subject of "Framed," coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the State. In the cast of this story about a blonde waitress who frames an unsuspecting drunk are Glenn Ford, Janis Carter, Barry Sullivan, Edgar Buchanan, Karen Morley and Jim Bannon.

On the same bill will be "Rhythm and Weep" with the Three Stooges. Love and conflict south of the border are portrayed in "The Gay Senorita" coming Wednesday and Thursday to the State. The movie, which is filled with songs and Yankee chicanery, stars Jinx Falkenberg, Jim Bannon, Steve Cochran, Corinna Mura and Isabella.

Out of the English Army now, Bulldog Drummond is back on the screen in another crime-fighting episode, "Bulldog Drummond at Bay," Ron Randall portrays the fearless detective; Anita Louise, Pat O'More and Holmes Herbert are in the cast.

Friday and Saturday brings "Prairie Raiders," with Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette to the State.

PALACE THEATER
King of the Cowboys, Roy Rogers, comes to the Palace Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in "Apache Rose," with his horse, Trigger. In the picture, which concerns a ruse to trick a Spanish senorita, are Dale Evans, Olin Howlin, Bob Nolan and the Sons of the Pioneers.

Postwar plotters against the country are the villains in "Step by Step" coming Wednesday and Thursday to the Palace. In the cast are Laurence Tierney, Anne Jeffreys and Lowell Gilmore.

Jimmy Wakely again proves his mettle as a defender of law and order as he rounds up the wicked men about to foreclose on the poor heroine in "Six-Gun Serenade," coming Friday and Saturday to the Palace. In the cast are Lee "Lasses" White, Kay Morley and Jimmie Martin.

FAYETTE THEATER
Probably the first picture ever to feature a veterinarian as the hero comes to the Fayette Sunday and Monday, "Stallion Road," starring Ronald Reagan in his first picture since his discharge from the service, was adapted from Stephen Longstreet's best-selling novel of a few years ago. Reagan plays the vet who is trying to develop an anti-anthrax serum. Zachary Scott is the novelist who competes with Reagan for the love of Alexis Smith.

Ancient jewels provide the object of suspicion and death in "Jewels of Brandenburg," coming Tuesday and Wednesday to the Fayette. In the cast of the picture are Richard Travis, Micheline Cheirel, Leonard Strong and Carol Thurston.

A screen adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's novel "Law of the Timber," comes the same days to the Fayette. In the picture are Marjorie Reynolds, Monte Blue and J. Farrell MacDonald.

"Ramrod" the tale of a ruthless woman in cattle country, comes Thursday, Friday and Saturday to the Fayette. In the cast of this picture about the woman and the men she deceives are Veronica Lake, Joel McCrea, Ian McDonald, Charlie Ruggles, Preston Foster, Arleen Whelan, Lloyd Bridges and Don DeFore.

Eagles Trounce Dodgers In Play Off On July 4

A 7 to 2 triumph over Grove City's rampaging Dodgers was racked up by the Washington C. H. Eagles in a Fourth of July celebration playoff of a postponed game at Columbus to pave the way for their return to Wilson Field Sunday for a game with Jamestown's Lions.

In other SCO games set for Sunday, Jeffersonville's Cubs are to play at Ashville; Chillicothe's Meads at Grove City and Lancaster's Glassmen at Greenfield.

Brooklyn will meet the New York Yankees in the World Series according to the pleasant myth that accepts the July 4th, evening standings as infallible guide of things to come.

Myth is the word for it as far as the National League is concerned for only four times in the last 10 years has it worked out that way.

This is the sixth time in the last eight years that the Dodgers have been leading the parade at this stage. The 1941 pennant is the only flag that has waved over Flatbush since 1920.

American League clubs have been more consistent. The last

Hughey Legion Tops Softball

When the Hughey post of the American Legion poured it on to beat the DP&L 15 to 6 in Thursday night's game at Wilson Field, they moved to the top of the City League softball scramble with the other legion team, the colored boys of the Homer Lawson post, right behind.

The Hughey post outfit has won five games and the Lawson post crew has taken four. Each team has lost but one game. The Hughey post's one defeat, incidentally, was at the hands of the Lawson post.

Here is the standing:

Hughey Legion	5	1
Lawson Legion	4	1
Universal	3	1
Penningtons	2	3
Armbrust	2	3
Mortons	2	3
DP&L	1	4
New Holland	1	4

Thursday night's game was just a merry romp for the Legionnaires at the expense of the usually tough DP&L crew which was still receiving acclaim for the way it made the Lawson post boys hustle to beat them in their last previous game.

In the other softball games Thursday, Good Hope beat Fayette, 9 to 4, in the Grange League and Sunnyside edged Eastside, 7-3, in the best game the Eastsiders have played in the Senior Knott League.

Legion Juniors Go To Portsmouth

The Legion Junior baseball team backed in the nationwide program by the Paul H. Hughey post of Washington C. H. today was making hurry-up arrangements to go to Portsmouth for their first game of a somewhat new type of district tournament.

Scheduled to play the Portsmouth Juniors at 11 A.M. Sunday, in the first round of a double-elimination tourney, the boys from all over Fayette County who make up the squad of 15 are to leave from the Legion Hall on North Fayette Street at 8 A.M.

They would have played their second round game at Wilson Field here the following Sunday, but under pre-season arrangements they will have to yield the field to the Eagles and play on the home lot of their opponents, whoever it may be as the result of the first games.

The Eagles are booked to play here July 12, and the Juniors had taken Wilson Field, which was put in shape largely by the Eagles, only when the Eagles were playing away from home on the SCO semi-pro circuit.

Incidentally, the Eagles are lending their full moral support to the Juniors.

Under rules of the double-elimination tourney, each team must be defeated twice before it is eliminated. Teams in the district tourney represent Legion posts in Portsmouth, West Union, Iron-ton, Chillicothe and Washington C. H.

The Washington C. H. boys, who have won both of their games today—from Hamilton and Greenfield—may get to perform before hometown fans July 20 or some Tuesday or Thursday late afternoon before July 29, the date the district play must be completed.

Word that the opening tourney game would be played at Portsmouth Sunday was not received by J. Paul Strevey, the Legion committee chairman, until just before the start of the Fourth of July holiday. It came as a surprise, although no long advance notice had been expected and it put Strevey in high gear getting notice to the squad members.

The Washington C. H. boys, who have won both of their games today—from Hamilton and Greenfield—may get to perform before hometown fans July 20 or some Tuesday or Thursday late afternoon before July 29, the date the district play must be completed.

Word that the opening tourney game would be played at Portsmouth Sunday was not received by J. Paul Strevey, the Legion committee chairman, until just before the start of the Fourth of July holiday. It came as a surprise, although no long advance notice had been expected and it put Strevey in high gear getting notice to the squad members.

Under rules of the double-elimination tourney, each team must be defeated twice before it is eliminated. Teams in the district tourney represent Legion posts in Portsmouth, West Union, Iron-ton, Chillicothe and Washington C. H.

Gwinn Milling Company Fire Loss $500,000

Second Time During Two Years Mill Is Destroyed

Starting Thursday midnight, fire for the second time in 20 months, wiped out the mill building of the Gwinn Milling Company, 1905 East Main Street, Columbus, causing damage estimated at $500,000.

The seven-story structure was completely destroyed and Clarence E. Gwinn, company president, and son of O. E. Gwinn, formerly of Washington C. H., said the damage would reach around the half million mark. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Just 20 months ago to the day the mill was visited by a half million dollar fire, and the plant was idle for six months while the building and equipment were replaced.

However, much new equipment remained to be placed in position, and this was destroyed along with the mill.

The fire started on the first floor of the mill, apparently from an explosion in a micro-pulverizer. It spread with lightning speed throughout the building bringing to the scene every fireman in the city.

The spectacular fire was watched by thousands, and the surrounding area was packed with fire fighting equipment.

Water was still being poured on the embers Saturday, after several companies of firemen had stood by all day Friday, and kept streams playing on the pile of glowing ruins.

The Gwinn Company owns the Gwinn elevators plant here, and J. Earl McLean, this city, for years was general manager of the big plant in Columbus.

The huge concrete bins, with a capacity of 1,250,000 bushels of grain, were not damaged by the fire.

The mill probably will be rebuilt.

Huge Stock of Drug Is Moved

Federal narcotic authorities have moved some 3,000,000 morphine syrettes, valued at several millions of dollars, from Patterson Field to Washington D. C. after a plot to raid the supply was thwarted by arrest of three Fayette County men a week ago.

The three men, Albert Donahue, Bloomington, and Delbert Gault and Richard H. Stookey of Washington C. H. are now being held in Columbus with bail fixed at $5,000 for arraignment on July 7, on charges of moving narcotics without a written order.

A heavy guard was placed over the supply of morphine after the plot to raid it was brought to light here and the three men arrested.

Forest Shade Grange Plans For A Picnic

HERE AGAIN
GEO. L. HOWE

Well-known expert, of Indianapolis, and ex-U. S. Army Medical Corpsman, will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Cherry Hotel, Washington C. H., Monday, July 7th from 3 P. M. to 7 P. M.

Mr. Howe says the Howe method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Howe Rupture Shield has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address P. O. Box 5233 E. Michigan Street, Station, Indianapolis, 1, Indiana.

Husband Faces Murder Charge In Pickaway

Admits Killing His Wife and Then Burned House

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Saturday filed a first degree murder charge against Irvin Eugene Trent, 22, for the shotgun killing of Trent's pregnant wife of five months, Ruby Trent, 22, whose charred body was found Wednesday in the debris of their home in Darby Township, Pickaway County, a few miles east of Mt. Sterling.

Sheriff Radcliff, when he investigated the fire and was told by Trent that the house caught fire while he was in a field at work and his wife burned to death, immediately suspected murder, and called for a post-mortem examination of the expectant mother's body.

Examination showed that the woman's head had almost been blown off.

After giving Trent the lie detector test in Columbus, and questioning him closely, Sheriff Radcliff said the man broke down and admitted that he had killed his wife with a shotgun, then set the house on fire to cover up his crime.

Sheriff Radcliff also said Trent confessed that after he had killed his wife he drove to Derby, obtained gasoline, poured it over his wife's body and the beds before setting fire to the house.

Radcliff quoted Trent as saying "he felt he did not have enough money to care for the child."

Sheriff Radcliff quoted from Trent's alleged confession: "I awoke shortly before 5 A. M. Wednesday as always, and started down to get breakfast before going out to plow. I had been worried about finances and the new baby—Mrs. Trent was an expectant mother—was going to be too much. I went down stairs and got my shotgun and returned to the bed and shot my wife in the head.

"I went down and ate breakfast and then plowed the field beside the house until noon. I didn't know what to do about Ruby, but I decided to drive to town and get some gasoline and burn the house."

Sheriff Radcliff said Saturday that he believed Trent had another purpose back of the slaying than that of being unable to support the child, and is investigating further.
